

This Way

By reenacting “This Way Brouwn” Lion Zeegers and Julia Retz are interested in how the residents of The Hague trace back areas of the city within their personal experiences.

They are able to observe how people relate differently to the same city by asking passersby direction of how to get from one location to another.

